Dear Adam:

It is hard to believe that just over two years ago we made contact with your company. I believe our initial contact was with Tim N [redacted] in your sales department. Those were some dark days for [redacted] and at times we were not very sure if we would survive.

After suffering the losses of corporate embezzlement and all the outstanding debt accumulated due to the computer fraud that went along with it, we were not certain how we would turn things around. Rebuilding the trust of our customers and vendors proved to be a true test of faith.

Corporate Turnaround took what appeared to be an impossible situation and made business bearable. It is now nearly two and half years later and things have turned around for us.

Upon initial contact we had over $155,000.00 in debt and no workable plan to pay while remaining open for business. With your negotiations and reasonable payment plan, (which in the beginning did not feel reasonable), we have been able to rebound.

I know there are other companies out there that need your assistance and expert advice. I also know that it is not always easy to admit that help is needed. It is not always easy to begin a payment plan when it seems there is nothing to work with. Somehow you took nothing and made it work.

We have remained viable and profitable in the worst of economic times and we have you and the Corporate Turnaround family to thank for this. Stopping the phone calls alone, made my job easier. So again, I say "Thank you"! We make boxes, you make smiles!

Sincerely,

Your company's results may vary. Every restructuring has a unique combination of issues and factors, including the length of participation in the program. All of these variables affect individual outcomes. There are no "typical" results. There are no time limits for reaching settlements. Some creditors may settle after CT's first set of offers, and others may be resolved later on. Until a debt is resolved, creditors may continue with their collection efforts, including phone calls and legal action. CT does not provide any legal services or legal advice.
